

Anthony Wong

Senior Director and Associate General Counsel, Informatica

Anthony is a seasoned in-house lawyer hailing from New Zealand. He has been living in Singapore for the past fifteen years supporting the legal affairs of several leading global technology firms. From software applications to technology consulting, systems integration, managed services and now Cloud modernisation, he has developed significant experience negotiating multi-million dollar transactions helping enterprises and government organisations advance their technology investments. As the head of legal affairs in Asia-Pacific at Informatica, Anthony is responsible for managing all legal matters in the region and outside of his usual daily duties he is dedicated to developing public policy in the digital world and developing the legal skills and knowledge of up and rising legal talent.